

ARTICLE posted in Small Business, Women Of Power Articles

A Natural Advantage

How one entrepreneur educates consumers to forge a strong brand impression

Jane Carter, 43, owner of Jane Carter Solution, a line of natural haircare products sold in Whole Foods Market and The Vitamin Shoppe, says consumers have finally begun to read labels. But companies must do more than slap the words "organic" or "all-natural" on their packaging to stand out. They must engage—and educate—consumers using social media and sampling opportunities to forge strong brand impressions. Here's how:

Carter carefully chooses her business relationships. (Photo by Lonnie C. Major)

Show and prove. Natural products are often more costly to produce than synthetics, so manufacturers must clearly demonstrate product benefits to overcome resistance to higher pricing. "Once they try natural-based products, the results are so much more favorable that they are more willing to make the investment," Carter explains. "Once they realize that there are many products that can negatively affect their health, many will not use synthetic or unhealthy ingredients if they have a choice."

Listen carefully. Every business' challenge is to solve consumers' problems. To position her company as a trusted resource, Carter hosts a monthly conference call that customers can dial into and get answers to their specific haircare questions. "We have had as many as 600 people dial into our calls," Carter says. "The topic of the call could be about alopecia or the effects menopause has on your hair, as well as transitioning from relaxed to natural hair."

Work the Web. "It takes diligence to get national recognition when you're a small company and not advertising in major magazines," Carter says. "The Internet is probably the most powerful marketing venue of Article written by Maya Payne Smart.

Posted in Small Business, Women of Power Articles on Friday, March 12, 2010, 20:23

This post has 2 Comments. Leave a comment.

viewed 370 times

User Ratings
 (No Ratings Yet)

Print This Post

ADVERTISEMENT

Ohio Third Frontier
Innovation Creating Opportunity

If your business is looking for...

- ▶ Investment capital
- ▶ World-class research opportunities
- ▶ Product innovation support
- ▶ Top talent to grow

Learn more about what Ohio can do for you!

Click Here

In This Issue

JULY

Job Seekers Readiness Guide

Magazine Page

Recent Articles

Small Business | Personal Finance | Careers

- 6 Ways To Know When Enough Is Enough
- How to Become a Personal Shopper
- POLL: How Often Do People Ask You For A Hookup?

Recent Blogs

- Free Ways to Monitor Your Credit

SEARCH JOBS POST YOUR RÉSUMÉ & GET ADVICE NOW

BLACK ENTERPRISE.com/careers

BLACK ENTERPRISE SUBSCRIBE ONLINE &

Related Content

- A Selective Solution
- Mix and Match
- Where the Jobs Are: Stylist Takes Hair Flair to White House

- Mocha Moms Are More Than Just Mothers
- Tips for Your First Job Out of School
- Cutting Edge: Zip Car's Going Public. Should I Buy?
- UBR Morning Post: Biz Advice From Margaret Garner

ADVERTISEMENT

feedback

products organic

2 Comments

Posted on April 28, 2010 at 4:28 pm

I ADORE Jane Carter as a business woman and I LOVE her Jane Carter Solution products! High performance and all natural....what we've all been waiting for. Did you know that her products are now available in Target?!?

Kitty St Claire

Reply

Posted on June 10, 2010 at 2:19 pm

I'll have to keep these notes in mind when I am promoting my website. It definitely does make sense, especially since a lot of the natural and organic products may be seen as more or less fake or faux-natural, if that makes sense.

supplement
vitamin

Plus, what's wrong with using non-organic/natural products? I never saw the difference to be honest.

Reply

Leave a Comment

Name (required)

Mail (will not be published) (required)

Website

Ohio

Third Frontier
Innovation Creating Opportunity

If your business is looking for...

- ▶ Investment capital
- ▶ World-class research opportunities
- ▶ Product innovation support
- ▶ Top talent to grow

Learn more about what
Ohio can do for you!

▶ Click Here

SUBSCRIBE ONLINE & SAVE 72%

BLACK ENTERPRISE

ADVERTISEMENT